PREFACE

This report presents statistics on the number of inhabitants of the State, its counties, and minor civil divisions (townships, etc.). In addition, separate figures are also presented for urban places, wards of cities of 5,000 or more, and other areas of the State. These data are based upon tabulations from the Seventeenth Decennial Census of the population of the United States, its Territories, and possessions conducted as of April 1, 1950. Provision for the Seventeenth Decennial Census was made in the act providing for the Fifteenth and subsequent decennial censuses which was approved on June 18, 1929.

The major portion of the information compiled from the Census of Population of 1950 will appear in Volume I, Number of Inhabitants, and in Volume II, Characteristics of the Population. This report is a preprint of Chapter 22 (Michigan) of Volume I, which is to present, in a single publication, statistics on the number of inhabitants for each State.

The materials presented here will also appear as Chapter A of Part 22 (Michigan) of Volume II. Volume II will comprise a series of separately published parts, one for each State and a summary for the United States. The use of separate parts makes the basic materials on characteristics of the population for a given State available to the public in a single publication. Within the part for a State, Chapter A will recapitulate the statistics on the number and distribution of the population within a State; Chapter B will present statistics on the general characteristics of the population of the various political subdivisions of the State, such as counties, incorporated places, and the like; and Chapter C will present data on the detailed characteristics of the population of the larger areas within the State, such as cities of 100,000 inhabitants or more and standard metropolitan areas.

The materials presented here were prepared under the supervision of Howard G. Brunsman, Chief, Population and Housing Division, and Dr. Henry S. Shryock, Jr., Assistant Chief for Population Statistics, by Dr. Henry D. Sheldon, Chief, Demographic Statistics Section, and Charles P. Brinkman, Chief, Population Distribution Unit; the compilation of the statistics was under the direction of Robert B. Voight, Assistant Chief for Operations. The collection of the information on which these statistics are based was under the supervision of Lowell T. Galt, Chief, Field Division. The geographic work, including the delineation of special types of urban territory and the preparation of maps, was under the supervision of Clarence E. Batschelet, Chief, Geography Division.

U. S. CENSUS OF POPULATION: 1950

Volume

- I Number of Inhabitants
- II Characteristics of the Population

Succeeding volumes will cover the following subjects:

Census Tracts, Nativity and Parentage, Nonwhite Population by Race, Persons of Spanish Surname, Institutional Population, Differential Fertility, Labor Force Characteristics, Occupation, Industry, Income, Internal Migration, Education, Characteristics of Families and Households.

U. S. CENSUS OF HOUSING: 1950

Volume

- I General Characteristics
- II Nonfarm Housing Characteristics
- III Farm Housing Characteristics
- IV Residential Financing
- V Block Statistics

Housing statistics for census tracts are to be included in the Population reports on census tracts.

MICHIGAN

Number of Inhabitants

The State.—Michigan was organized as a Territory in 1805 from the northeastern part of Indiana Territory and comprised the greater part of the area of the present State, including the Lower Peninsula and the eastern end of the Upper Peninsula, and a small part of the present State of Indiana. In 1816 its area was reduced by the annexation to Indiana Territory, upon its formation as a State, of a narrow strip at the southern limit of Michigan Territory. In 1818, when Illinois was admitted as a State, all of Illinois Territory north of the State of Illinois was transferred to Michigan Territory. This transferred area comprised almost all of the present State of Wisconsin, part of Minnesota, and the western part of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan. At the same time a section of unorganized territory, formerly part of Indiana Territory, was annexed by the Territory of Michigan. This annexation comprised the middle portion of the Upper Peninsula and a very small part of Wisconsin not formerly included. In 1834 Michigan Territory was further enlarged by the annexation of that part of Missouri Territory now comprising all of Iowa, the remainder of Minnesota not previously included, and parts of North and South Dakota. With the organization of Wisconsin Territory and the legal cession of a small area to Ohio in 1836, Michigan Territory assumed the limits of the present State. Michigan was admitted to the Union as the twenty-sixth State in 1837. Its population on April 1, 1950, according to the Seventeenth Census, was 6,371,766. The State has a land area of 57,022 square miles. In 1950 there was an average of 111.7 inhabitants per square mile as compared with an average of 92.2 in 1940. Among the States, Michigan ranked seventh in population and twenty-first in land area.

In 1840, the first year in which it was enumerated as a State, Michigan had a population of 212,267 (table 1). In 1950, 110 years later, its population was 30 times as large. Except for the two decades from 1890 to 1910, Michigan has grown at a more rapid rate than the Nation as a whole. The gain of 2,208,715 in the 60-year period ending in 1900 brought the 1900 population to 2,420,982, or 11 times the 1840 population. The gain between 1900 and 1950 was 3,950,784. The largest numerical increase and rate of growth over the 50 years came in the decade 1920 to 1930, when an increase of 1,173,913, or 32.0 percent, was recorded. The numerical increase of 1,115,660 between 1940 and 1950 represented a gain of 21.2 percent over the 1940 population of 5,256,106.

Usual place of residence.—According to usual Census practice, which dates back to 1790, each person enumerated in the 1950 Census was counted as an inhabitant of his usual place of residence or usual place of abode, which is generally construed to mean the place where he lives and sleeps most of the time. This place is not necessarily the same as his legal residence, voting residence, or domicile, although, in the vast majority of cases, these different bases of classification would be identical.

In the application of this rule, persons were not always counted as residents of the places in which they happened to be found by the census enumerators. Persons in places where guests usually pay for quarters (hotels, etc.) were enumerated on the night of April 11, and those whose usual place of residence was elsewhere were allocated to their homes. Visitors found staying in private homes, however, were not ordinarily interviewed there. Information on persons away from their usual place of residence was obtained from other members of their families, landlords, etc. If an entire family was expected to be away during the whole period of the enumeration, information on it was obtained from neighbors. A matching process was used to eliminate duplicate reports for persons who reported for themselves while away and were also reported by their families at home.

Persons in the armed forces quartered on military installations were enumerated as residents of the States, counties, and minor civil divisions in which their installations were located. Members of their families were enumerated where they actually resided. In the 1950 Census, college students living away from home were considered residents of the communities in which they were residing while attending college, rather than as persons temporarily absent from their parental homes as was the practice in 1940. In 1950 the crews of vessels of the American Merchant Marine in harbors of the United States were counted as part of the population of the ports in which their vessels were berthed on April 1, 1950. In 1940 such persons were treated as part of the population of the port from which the vessel operated. Inmates of institutions, who ordinarily live there for long periods of time, were counted as inhabitants of the place in which the institution was located; whereas patients in general hospitals, who ordinarily have short stays, were counted at, or allocated to, their homes. All persons without a usual place of residence were counted where they were enumerated.

Urban and rural population.—The 1950 urban population of Michigan comprised 4,503,084 persons, or 70.7 percent of the population of the State (table 1). This population was living in the 150 urban places in the State and in other territory included in the urban-fringe areas of the Detroit, Flint, Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, Lansing, Muskegon, Pontiac, and Saginaw Urbanized Areas and in the Michigan part of the South Bend, Ind., Urbanized Area. Almost four-fifths of the urban population of the State was living in urbanized areas (table 2).

The rural population of Michigan numbered 1,868,682 persons, or 29.3 percent of the total population of the State (table 1). Of the rural population, 248,713 persons, or 13.3 percent, were living in the 120 incorporated places and 37 unincorporated places of 1,000 to 2,500 inhabitants (table 2).

Urban definition.—Under the urban definition established for use in the 1950 Census, the urban population comprises all persons living in (a) places of 2,500 inhabitants or more incorporated as cities, boroughs, towns,¹ and villages; (b) the densely settled urban fringe, including both incorporated and unincorporated areas, around cities of 50,000 or more; and (c) unincorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more outside any urban fringe. The remaining population is classified as rural. According to the urban definition used in previous censuses, the urban population comprises all persons living in incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more and areas (usually minor civil divisions) classified as urban under special rules relating to population size and density.

In both definitions, the most important component of the urban territory is the group of incorporated places having 2,500 inhabitants or more. A definition of urban territory restricted to such places, however, would exclude a number of equally large and densely settled places, merely because they were not incorporated places. Under the old definition, an effort was made to avoid some of the more obvious omissions by the inclusion of the places urban under special rules. Even with these rules, however, many large and closely built-up places were excluded from the urban territory. To improve the situation in the 1950 Census, the Bureau of the Census set up, in advance of enumeration, boundaries for urban-fringe areas around cities of 50,000 or more and for unincorporated places outside urban fringes. All the population residing in urban-fringe areas and in unincorporated places of 2,500 or more is classified as urban according to the 1950 definition. (Of course, the incorporated places of 2,500 or more are urban in their own right.) Consequently, the special rules of the old definition are no longer necessary.

According to the new urban definition, the 1950 urban population of Michigan included the following components: (1) the 4,099,007 inhabitants of the 139 incorporated places of 2,500 or more; (2) the 58,890 inhabitants of the 11 specially delineated unincorporated places of 2,500 or more; and (3) 345,187 persons living in other territory included in the urban-fringe areas of the 8 urbanized areas entirely within the State and the 1 urbanized area partially within the State. Since there were no places classified as urban under special rule in Michigan according to the old definition, the first element comprised the urban population under the old definition. The population of the remaining elements—404,077—represents the gain in the urban population of Michigan which resulted from the change in definition.

Although the Bureau of the Census has employed other definitions in the course of its history, the statistics on the population by urban and rural residence for the years 1810 to 1940 are shown in accordance with the 1940 definition. The 1950 statistics are shown in accordance with both the new and old definitions.

Trends of urban and rural population.—Trends in the urban and rural population can be examined only on the basis of the old definition. On this basis, the urban population more than quadrupled between 1900 and 1950, rising from 952,323 to 4,099,007 (table 1). The most rapid rate of increase in the 50-year period came in the decade 1910 to 1920. The largest numerical increase, 1,060,515, was recorded in the next decade. The increase of 644,140 between 1940 and 1950 represented a gain of 18.6 percent over the 1940 urban population of 3,454,867. Two of the incorporated places of 10,000 inhabitants or more, Hazel Park and Livonia cities, were incorporated subsequent to April 1, 1940. Of the 53 other incorporated places of this size in Michigan, all but 3 shared in the growth of the urban population between 1940 and 1950. The rates of change ranged from a decline of 14.2 percent for Ironwood city to an increase of 270.1 percent for Grosse Pointe Woods village (table 4). One out of every nine persons in the State in 1900 was living in the one city of 100,000 inhabitants or more; by 1950 one out of every three persons in the State was living in the three cities of this size (table 3). The proportion of the population of Michigan living in urban territory increased from 39.3 to 64.3 percent over the 50-year period.

Despite a decline in the decade 1910 to 1920, the rural population of Michigan increased from 1,468,659 to 2,272,759 between 1900 and 1950 (table 1). The numerical increase of 471,520 in the decade 1940 to 1950, the largest in the history of the State, accounted for nearly three-fifths of the increase over the 50-year period. The increase for the decade represented a gain of 26.2 percent over the 1940 rural population of 1,801,239. The proportion of the population of Michigan living in rural territory declined from 60.7 percent in 1900 to 35.7 percent in 1950. It had been as low as 31.8 percent in 1930.

Counties.—The 83 counties in Michigan ranged in size from Keweenaw with a population of 2,918 to Wayne with a population of 2,435,235 (table 5). Between 1940 and 1950, 68 of the counties increased in population as against 79 in the previous decade. Eleven of the 15 counties which lost population, including the 4 which had lost in the previous decade, were located in the Upper Peninsula. The most rapid rate of increase between 1940 and 1950 was experienced in Macomb County, which increased at the rate of 71.8 percent. As in the previous decade, the largest numerical increase was recorded in Wayne County. The gain of 419,612 for Wayne County accounted for more than one-third of the population increase for the State.

Minor civil divisions.—To the primary political divisions into which counties are subdivided, the Bureau of the Census applies the general term "minor civil divisions." The minor civil divisions in Michigan are the townships and cities. The incorporated villages form subdivisions of the minor civil divisions in which they are located.

Table 6 shows statistics on the population of each county by minor civil divisions for the last three censuses. The population of each village and unincorporated place is shown in italics under the population of the township in which it is located. When a village or unincorporated place lies in two or more townships, the population of the several parts is shown in table 6 in the appropriate counties and minor civil divisions, and each part is designated by "part." Figures on the total population of such places are given in table 7. Unincorporated places are designated by "uninc." Changes between the 1940 Census and the 1950 Census in the boundaries of the areas listed are shown in notes to table 6. For changes in boundaries prior to the 1940 Census, see reports of the Sixteenth Census (1940), Population, Vol. I, pp. 505-512, and reports of earlier censuses.

Incorporated and unincorporated places.—Michigan had 486 places incorporated as cities or villages and 48 unincorporated places of 1,000 inhabitants or more. Of the 4,421,154 persons living in the incorporated places, 322,147 were living in the 347 places of fewer than 2,500 inhabitants. The 37 unincorporated places of 1,000 to 2,500 inhabitants accounted for 55,152 of the 114,042 inhabitants of the unincorporated places. The incorporated places ranged in size from Lake Ann village with a population of 99 to Detroit city with a population of 1,849,568.

Political units recognized as incorporated places in the 1950 Census are those which are incorporated as cities, boroughs, towns, and villages, with the exception that towns are not recognized as incorporated places in the New England States, New York, and Wisconsin.

The Bureau of the Census has delineated boundaries for the thickly settled urban fringe around cities of 50,000 or more and has also delineated boundaries for unincorporated places of 1,000 or more which are densely settled population centers without corporate limits. Although there are unincorporated places within the urban fringe, it was not feasible to establish boundaries for such places and therefore they are not identified as separate places.

The count of urban places in the 1950 Census comprises all incorporated places of 2,500 or more regardless of location and unincorporated places of 2,500 or more which are located outside the urban-fringe areas. Incorporated places of less than 2,500 which lie in the urban fringe are not recognized as urban places.

Urbanized areas.—There were eight urbanized areas entirely within Michigan in 1950 and one urbanized area partially within the State. Of the 3,585,514 persons in urbanized areas in Michigan, 2,554,087 were living in the eight central cities and 1,031,427 in the urban-fringe areas. The urban-fringe areas had 702,177 persons living in 47 incorporated places and 329,250 living in unincorporated parts (tables 2 and 9).

Each urbanized area contains at least one city with 50,000 inhabitants or more in 1940 or according to a special census taken since 1940, and some urbanized areas contain two or more cities of 50,000. Each urbanized area also includes the surrounding closely settled incorporated places and unincorporated areas that meet the criteria listed in the section below on "Urban fringe." Thus, the territory of an urbanized area may be classified into incorporated parts and unincorporated parts. (See urbanized area maps.)

An urbanized area also may be divided into central city or cities and urban fringe as defined below.

Central cities.—Although an urbanized area may contain more than one city of 50,000 or more, not all cities of this size are necessarily central cities. The largest city of an area is always a central city. In addition, the second and third most populous cities in the area may qualify as central cities provided they have a population of at least one-third of that of the largest city in the area and a minimum of 25,000 inhabitants. The names of the individual urbanized areas indicate the central cities of the areas.

Urban fringe.—The urban fringe includes that part of the urbanized area which is outside the central city or cities. The following types of areas are embraced if they are contiguous to the central city or cities or if they are contiguous to any area already included in the urban fringe:

1. Incorporated places with 2,500 inhabitants or more in 1940 or at a subsequent special census conducted prior to 1950.

2. Incorporated places with fewer than 2,500 inhabitants containing an area with a concentration of 100 dwelling units or more with a density in this concentration of 500 units or more per square mile. This density represents approximately 2,000 persons per square mile and normally is the minimum found associated with a closely spaced street pattern.

3. Unincorporated territory with at least 500 dwelling units per square mile.

4. Territory devoted to commercial, industrial, transportation, recreational, and other purposes functionally related to the central city.

Also included are outlying noncontiguous areas with the required dwelling unit density located within $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles of the main contiguous urbanized part, measured along the shortest connecting highway, and other outlying areas within one-half mile of such noncontiguous areas which meet the minimum residential density rule.

¹ According to the new urban definition, the urban population comprises persons residing in urban territory but not necessarily in an urban place, which is defined as an incorporated place of 2,500 or more, or an unincorporated place of 2,500 or more located outside an urbanized area. Under the old definition, incorporated places of 2,500 or more and places urban under special rule are classified as urban places. There were no places urban under special rule in Michigan.

² Includes 345,187 persons in urban territory outside of urban places.

³ Population refers to Michigan Territory as constituted at time census was taken. Boundaries changed in 1816, 1818, 1831, and 1836.

Table 6.—POPULATION OF COUNTIES BY MINOR CIVIL DIVISIONS: 1930 TO 1950

[“Uninc.” designates an unincorporated place. Figures for 1940 and 1950 not available for unincorporated places and places incorporated since April 1, 1940. Minor civil division figures for 1910 and 1930 do not necessarily add to county totals. Boundary changes between 1940 and 1950 given in footnotes; for changes between 1930 and 1940, see reports of 16th Census (1940), Population, Vol. 1, pp. 505-512. Total population of a place located within 2 or more counties or minor civil divisions appears in table 7.]

URBANIZED AREA MAPS

The eight urbanized areas having their central cities in Michigan, for which statistics are shown in table 9, are depicted in the following maps. The shaded areas, in combination, comprise the urbanized areas. To assist in locating the exact external boundaries of the areas, each boundary feature (street segment, political boundary, or other) has been assigned a number. The boundary segments thus numbered are shown on the map and the features to which they apply are presented in the following key.
